Adjournment

All regularly scheduled Senate meetings are open to the members of the Senate. However, if during the meeting, discussion of any item on the agenda is requested to be held in closed session, the Senate will convene an Executive Session per the bylaws and constitution of the Senate. Before any Executive Session, the presiding officer will publicly announce the session's time limit and respectfully request those in attendance to temporarily adjourn and return after the expired time of the session. All final votes, actions, or decisions will be taken in the resumed open meeting.
